Colored Dots

An unusually large crowd attended the semi-annual session of the East and West Bound Sunday School Union held at the Galilee Baptist Church last Sunday at 10 A. M. The union was called to order by the president, Rev. R. Q. Lawing. The Sunday School classes were taught by deacon Wyatt Venable and Mr. Ralph Johnson. A review of the lesson was given by the president. The welcome address was given by Miss H. B. Stephens. The response was given by Mr. Ernest Humbles, of the Mount Airy School. Letters were read from the schools by delegates. After the reading of the minutes the following committees were appointed: finance, hospitality and enrollment. The sermon was delivered by the Rev. H. W. Pryor, pastor of the Mount Airy School, and music was furnished by the Mount Airy senior choir. The morning offering was taken by deacons Robinson Percy Johnson and Jones. After announcements, and benediction, dinner was served by the ladies of the Galilee church.

The afternoon session began at 2 P. M., with devotionals led by the Zion Baptist Church Sunday School. The Bible quiz was conducted by Mrs. O. W. Smith. The youth program was enjoyed by all. After the report of all committees, the union closed by singing Bless Be the Tie That Binds. The final offering for the day was $73.50. A total of $53.00 was left in the treasury of the Galilee Sunday School. The next meeting will be held with the Mount Pleasant Sunday School.

The special service sponsored by the Usher Board of the Galilee Baptist Church last Sunday evening at 7:30 was very impressive. The Rev. Charlie Franklin delivered a special sermon from the subject, Shaking The Physical Bodies. All present enjoyed the message. Mr. Herbert Allen was sponsor of the program.

The annual sermon to the graduating class of the Carver-Price High School will be delivered this Sunday at 4 P. M., by the Rev. H. J. Hendricks, pastor of the Zion Baptist Church, Pamplin, Va.

The annual Children's Day program will be held at Mount Shiloh Baptist Church on the second Sunday morning in June at 11:30. Mrs. Mattie Paige is sponsor of the program.

Even though the skies were grey an overflowing crowd attended the Baptist Cornerstone Sunday School Union at the St. Luke Baptist Church Sunday, and enjoyed a rich program, Rev. T. M. Venable, president, was in charge. Rev. J. A. Shelton delivered the message for the day on the subject: Blessed Are They Who Fear the Lord. Other ministers present were Rev. C. A. Marshall, Rev. A. F. Brown, and Rev. R. Venable. The union choir rendered enjoyable music. Mrs. H. Venable was at the piano. The offering for the day was $138.00. A bountiful lunch was served by ladies of the church. On the fifth Sunday in July the meeting will be held with the Evergreen Church.

Regular preaching services will be held at the St. Luke Baptist Church June 5.

Visitors in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. H. Canada Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Emmitt Haskins and Mr. and Mrs. James Coles and their children.

MAILING TIPS FROM POSTMASTER

Noting that the vacation season is here, Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield today emphasized 7 mailing tips which, if followed, assure vacationers the best possible mail service.

1. Don't let a stuffed mail box advertise your absence to housebreakers. Ask a neighbor to empty your box and hold your mail. If this cannot be arranged, your Postmaster may hold your mail for a limited time upon written request.

2. If you want to get your mail while you're away, file a forwarding order with your Postmaster. (Let him know when you get back, though.) Forwarding first - class mail does not require additional postage. Other classes of mail do, and you can guarantee payment of this postage by so indicating on the forwarding order you fill out.

3. Use your full and complete vacation address and give it to the people who may write you.

4. Use enough postage. Regular-size post cards take 3 cents, jumbo size cards 4 cents, first class letters 4 cents an ounce, air mail letters 7c an ounce.

5. Don't send cash in letters; use postal money orders, and register letters containing valuable items.

6. Prepare your packages carefully. When sending perishable, fragile, or unusual items by Parcel Post, it is best to check the local Post Office on their mailability, and always enclose a card with the recipient's address, as well as your own address, printed on it plainly.

7. Buy books of stamps so you won't run out your supply far from the nearest Post Office.

Social security disability payments at age 50 to age 65 are the same amount as those payable to retired workers 65 and over.

A disabled or retired worker's benefits range from at least $33.00 a month to about $120.00 a month, depending on the worker's average earnings over the years. For example, if the average earnings are $200 per month, the benefit to a disabled or retired worker would be $84.00 per month.

Wives and dependent children of disabled workers are eligible for monthly benefits the same as wives and dependent children of retired workers. These benefits are in addition to the benefits paid the disabled worker.

Under the law, a person must have social security credit for five full years within the ten year period before his disability started. For example a farmer first covered by social security in 1955, and who has never worked in covered employment or self - employment before, this requirement could first be met in October 1959.

A severely disabled farmer who is at least 50 years old may be eligible for payments, after he has been disabled for six full months. This means that a disabled farmer over 50, who has worked long enough under social security, may collect his first disability benefit for th emonth of April, 1960, provided he files a claim by April of 1961.

Let me urge all farmers who believe they may qualify for disability benefits to get in touch with their local social security office.

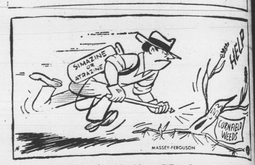
FARM PROFIT



New Chemicals Clean The Corn Rows

Corn farmers take note. Weeds between hills where the cultivator can't get at them could be costing you one-fourth of the corn yield you would be getting if the weeds weren't there.

And there's a new way to get rid of them, according to a Massey-Ferguson research report.

Two new chemical weed killers have proved that either of them can kill both broadleafed weeds and grasses with one application and keep them in check for six weeks or a full summer, depending upon the amount used. They are called Atrazine and Simazine.

Three years of research in Illinois proved that weeds in rows can sap away a fourth of the yield.

When Atrazine was applied to a corn field on Fred Schnieder's farm near Jerseyville, Illinois, it completely eliminated all weeds, and Massey-Ferguson researchers found.

Atrazine and the other new chemical, Simazine, cost more than 2,4-D; but the cost can be kept to a minimum by spraying it in 14-inch band over rows instead of spraying the entire field. Band treatment costs about $3.50 to $4.50 an acre.

There are a lot of advantages to using chemical weed killers besides the advantage of higher yield. Your cultivator will run with less root damage, for you won't have to set it so close to the rows. You won't have to worry about weeds choking your young corn if the field is so wet you can't drive your tractor in it. And you can harvest your hay at its peak feed value instead of waiting until you have finished cultivating. And hay is a money crop, too.

The only major differences between Simazine and Atrazine are that Atrazine dissolves more fully in water and probably is more effective in dry soil.

Practically every agricultural college in the United States recommends Simazine. Weed specialists also are praising Atrazine which is new this year.
